

NASSCOM 10,000 Startups, has launched a mobile app 'Startup Jobs' that alerts tech professionals about vacancies. The app offers a curated selection of job openings across various roles in startups, including technology, sales, marketing and operations. It allows candidates to upload their video profiles, get status updates in real time after companies have reviewed their profiles.

Bengaluru-based HR tech startup e-Poise Systems has created the app. The app provides an alternative channel for job seekers in a tough market where digital has altered the scope of doing business significantly. The app, for instance, has listed job openings for front-end developers, full-stack developers and designers.
